The Ponce De Leon Inlet Light Station & Museum is a National Historic Landmark. In 2004, museum staff completed the restoration of the 1933 rotating third order Fresnel lens, and the lens was re-installed in the tower. With the Coast Guard's permission, the 1933 characteristic of Fl(6)30sec was reinstated, and the lighthouse became a private aid to navigation. All of the lighthouse remains are open to the public. On an average day, the museum is staffed with volunteers who share with visitors what it was like living at the lighthouse.
